Hidden Gifts

Sweet Briar College is lucky. It has a gift that it has been giving to its students every day for nearly one hundred years, and many who receive this gift hardly know it. The gift the College freely gives is its nearly 3,000 acres. Students enjoy the campus whether they are riding at the Proving Grounds, walking the dreaded Dairy Route, or simply sitting in the Dell.

Long after facts have been forgotten, which war was fought in what year, or which verbs take the ablative case, one thing will stay with those who have been fortunate to grace the campus with their presence. They will still remember the April apple blossoms in front of Benedict, and the January snow on the Monument. These memories are what keep the College alive.

Senior Jen Valentine and her underclass lantern bearer stand on the Senior Stairs after the beautiful, time honored ceremony. Lantern bearing is the last big tradition before graduation Katey Miller and Dabney Ledyard, donning the red robe of St. Andrews University in Scotland, make their way up the dirt road to the Monument for Founder's Day. Celebrated at the beginning of October, Seniors and their chosen underclass sisters climb up the hill and place daisies on the grave of Daisy Williams, the daughter of the Founder of the college and in whose memory the school was founded.

*It's a Sweet Briar thing...
...you wouldn't understand.*

Traditions

It is close to impossible to spent a year at Sweet Briar and not participate in any one of the countless traditions which make our school one of the most unique schools in the country. How many colleges bring their students together to climb up a hill and pay homage to the founders? Where else can you find students processing around a quad clad in white dresses and black robes carrying flower-laden lanterns?

Even if you are just visiting the school, it is hard not to notice the Junior Bench, the Senior Stairs, the Sophomore Rock, and the Freshman Hitching Post. Each year, each class wrestles for their respective symbol in a messy fight to the finish.

Some of Sweet Briar's traditions do not take place at Sweet Briar. Going to parties either at other schools or at tailgates at the Foxfield Races in Charlottesville are as traditional as the Freshman Show.

These and other traditions are what make Sweet Briar special. They are the reason why many students come here. The traditions are also what make many students stay.

Seniors Margaret Gibson, Catherine Gornto, Jen Valentine, Elaine Barksdale, and Amy Peck enjoy their last Foxfield together.

The Sweet Tones aren't the only ones making beautiful music at the "briar patch..."

Step Singing

Step singing is one of the more touching traditions, uniting all of the classes through song. Twice a year everyone gathers around the Quad, sits with her class and sings rude songs to her rival class, sweet songs to her sister class, sad songs to the senior class, and fun songs to herself. The "sweet" sounds are not just for the students, but also for the faculty, staff, and entire community.

This is also the time that the S.G.A. holds its general membership meeting. Resolutions which require the vote of the entire student body are proposed.

Spring step singing is the setting for the secret sophomore Q.V.'s to be revealed. After spending a whole year anonymously "drop ping" little gifts to fellow classmates, and being targets to the rival Bum Chums, they are announced to the delight of everyone.

The nostalgic song from the Class of 1993 sent the entire Senior Class into fits of sobs and tears as they think about life after Sweet Briar..

The Class of 1993 sings to the Freshman class of 1995, their sister class. As is the tradition, the Juniors sang a song of friendship and support.

Jen Valentine and her freshman friend pose for one last picture to remember Jen's final Step Singing. The whole area around the Senior Steps looks like a camera convention every year at the close of the Spring ceremony.

The Senior Class sits on its "golden stairs" and sings the traditional songs of the college, which are as old as the steps on which they are sitting.

Seniors Katey Miller, Stacey Puro, Carrie Buckman, and Dabney Ledyard gather by the "Golden Stairs" before Fall Step Singing begins.

Seniors who have been out of the country on various abroad programs are always excited to be at Step Singing. The colorful banners on these senior robes indicate that the senior has been abroad. These seniors gather for Fall singing.

---

Step Singing is the time of year that the Q.V. s are revealed. Here the secret sophomores, who are secret no more, sing the Q.V. song. "Q.V., Q.V., I'd rather be Q.V. ..."

---

A good time is ALWAYS had by all on...

Junior Banquet Night

All SBCers start to look forward to Junior Banquet as soon as they get to the campus. Junior Banquet is the night when most of the rules go straight out the window, along with your bed if you happen to be so unlucky.

This year's theme was "The Wild West." Banquet-goers were presented with cowboy hats and water pistols upon entering the Wailes Student Center on March 18th.

After getting a plate of western style grub, each Junior listened as one of their many classmates read the odes. When the last ode had been read, the whole class walked to their rooms to find their senior robes.

Seniors decorated the rooms of the partying Juniors. This year, there were jungles, discos, cook outs, and Easter themes. Furniture turned up in academic buildings, lounges, and utility closets, leaving Juniors a clean-up project on March 19th.

Seniors Tracy Steele, Kimberly Mc Graw, and Margaret Mc Clellan anxiously await the arrival of their Juniors. The trio miraculously turned a room in Glass into a tropical beach scene..

Norma and Nancy Bulls and Camille Crawford listen to their friend's ode before they head back up to their rooms to check out the "damage."

Senior Catherine Gornto greets Juniors Cathy Viette and Kate Watson with a smile and a beer. She transformed Kate and Cathy's room into a honky tonk while they were at the Wailes Center.

Seniors decorated this room in Gray, used a plethora of bamboo borrowed from the SBC bamboo grove next to the book shop, in order to create an authentic jungle scene.

Margaret Gibson, Katie Abel, Amanda De Priest, and Kaki Twist enjoy a well deserved glass of "sex on the beach" from their inflatable pool. The "beach" scene was probably the most popular theme this year.

Senior Katherine Black prepares to lead her Junior Tori Milner into the "paradise" that she has created in Tori and Amy's room.

Juniors Sabryna Mc Clung and Sue Rapello show Senior Kyra Meelan how much they appreciate the way their room looks with a big "group hug."

Hampden-Sydney "Shag King"
Troy Hanna shows Freshman
Sybil Walker a new step at Fall Formal. The music was provided by a 60's type band.

The beer garden is a privilege enjoyed by "legal" formal-goers, and is always one of the most popular aspects of the event. Seniors Kelly Morton, Stacey Puro, Dabney Ledyard, and Margaret Gibson enjoy liquid refreshments in the beer garden at Fall Weekend.

*The search for the perfect dress,
the perfect date, and the perfect night...*

Formals!

Twice a year, Sweet Briar gets all dressed up and dances the night away in Prothro Commons. In the Fall, the Sophomore Class sponsored a three-decade walk down memory lane, with the 50's, 60's, and 70's represented.

In the Spring, the Social Activities Board (S.A.B.) sponsored "A Night in Paris." This Weekend was the first one to offer not only a band for the semi-formal, but also a sit down dinner with a comedian. It also was one of the best bargains SBC-ers have seen for a formal weekend in a long time. Sally Croker and the S.A.B. well deserve the credit for creating a great weekend which gave party-goers the most entertainment for their dollar. Holla,Holla!

Parties before the formal are always popular. Seniors Jen Valentine and Catherine Gornio cut a rug or two at the Boathouse before Spring Formal..

Seniors Sally Croker and Catherine Gornto slip into the 'Stro Room for a quick "breather" during a Senior Night in the Bistro event.

Guys from neighboring schools would drop in for a "quick pitcher" and surprise their Sweet Briar friends. Washington and Lee senior Dabney Collier and SBC senior Margaret Gibson share a pitcher of beer while Trey Eppes entertains in the Bistro.

It is the first Tuesday of the month, you're bored, and you want to hang out with all your friends...

Senior Nights

Seniors will all agree on one thing: nothing could keep them from being in the Bistro on the first Tuesday of every month. That's Senior Night. All of the seniors, whether they have a ton of work to do or not, will take a couple hours out of the evening and loosely call it a study break.

SAB and SPC organize either a band, acoustic guitarist or a comedian to entertain the Seniors, and anyone else who shows up. Usually there is a packed house so Seniors will send underclassmen down to stake out a table.

These Senior Nights proved to be the beacon in many Seniors week. Some Seniors even planned their study groups around the event.

Part of being a senior means that you can sit at the unofficial "Senior Table." Jill Fahy could always be found at the head of the table at every Senior Night.

Dear Seniors:

By the time you get this letter we will have long since graduated and become involved in a job, family or graduate school. It is amazing to think how quickly our four years at Sweet Briar have passed. During our time at SBC we "stressed", laughed, grew, cried, and succeeded; but most of all, we enjoyed! One of the most important factors contributing to our enjoyment was friendship. We all made friends the minute we walked onto campus in 1988, and it is because of these friendships that we survived our roughest times. Always remember that we share a common bond, Sweet Briar. This means that no matter how near or far we may travel, we will always be there for one another!

I want to thank all of you for the support I received this past year to make our Senior year the greatest! I wish all of you the best in whatever you choose to do. I will miss you very much until we meet again at our five year reunion! Take care and God bless you.

Respectfully submitted,
Amy K. Dickson
President, Senior Class

Senior Class officers Amy Dickson, Kyra Meelan, Cara Ardemagni, and Natasha Stanfill stand on the "Golden Stairs" one last time before graduation.

Lantern Bearing is one of the Seniors' favorite traditions. Here we see Katherine Black, Heather Daly, and Cynthia Theile in the Quad after the beautiful ceremony.

"After a while you learn the subtle difference between holding a hand and chaining a soul
 And you learn that love doesn't mean leaning
 And company doesn't mean security
 And you begin to learn that kisses aren't contracts
 And presents aren't promises
 And you learn to accept your defeats with your eyes open with the grace of a woman,
 not the grief of a child...
 So you plant your own garden
 And decorate your own soul
 Instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers
 And you learn that you really can endure
 That you really are strong
 And you really do have self-worth
 With each goodbye you learn."

"It's really a wonder that I haven't dropped all of my ideals, because they seem so absurd and impossible to carry out. Yet, I keep them, because inspite of everything I still believe that people are really good at heart. I simply can't build up my hopes on a foundation consisting of confusion, misery and death. I see the world gradually being turned into a wilderness, I hear the ever approaching thunder, which will destroy us too, I can feel the sufferings of millions and yet, if I look up into the heavens, I think that it will all come right, that this cruelty too will end, and that peace and tranquility will return again.

"What is Real?" asked the Rabbit one day. "It doesn't happen all at once. You become real. It takes a long time. That's why it doesn't often happen to people who break easily or have sharp edges, or have to be carefully kept. Generally, by the time you are real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose at the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand."

What I am trying to say is hard to tell and hard to understand...unless, unless...you have been yourself at the edge of the Deep Canyon and have come back unharmd. Maybe it all depends on something within yourself - whether you are trying to see the watersnake
